

SEVERE ELECTRICAL STORM STRUCK CITY ON SUNDAY MORNING

THREE FIRES WERE CAUSED BY LIGHTNING AND OTHER MINOR DAMAGE SUFFERED.

STREET CARS STALLED

Interurban and City Lines Were Badly Crippled on Account of Electrical Disturbances and Failed to Run Early Sunday Morning.

Considerable damage, not severe in any case, was the result of the electrical storm which struck Janesville and the lower end of Rock county late Saturday night and early Sunday morning. The storm, which was accompanied by a heavy fall of rain, blinding flashes of lightning with the heavy rumble of thunder frightened many of the inhabitants and where the bolts struck, a fire was the outcome. The entire fire alarm system of the city was put out of commission about four o'clock Sunday morning, the magnets in a number of boxes being burned out and repairs were not completed until eight o'clock last evening.

The disarrangement of the system caused the bell at the West Side fire station to ring continuously for some time.

Three Fire Calls.

The fire department was called out three times Sunday morning by fires resulting from lightning. The first was at the home of Henry Bull, 620 South Jackson street, where a bolt hit the building, but no damage was done. Shortly after a call was received from box 36 to put out a blaze at the home of Sidney Richards on Rucker avenue. Lightning hit the northwest corner of the house and ran down the studding, starting a fire between the clapboards and the lath and plaster. Some of the boards were chopped away and the department fought the flames with the hose for about an hour, finally extinguishing the blaze. Mr. Richards, who was sleeping in a room near where the bolt hit, felt a severe electrical shock, which stunned him and knocked over furniture in the room. The damage was slight.

Spectacular Blaze.

A blaze, very spectacular in its appearance, was caused by lightning in the Norcross block on South River street known as the "White House." The lightning caused the short circuiting of the electrical wires at the front of the Norton & Mahoney store and a brilliant electrical illumination resulted. The flames burnt the insulation off the wires and started to burn the woodwork in the stairway leading to the floors above. The wires leading to the building were cut and the blaze extinguished by using the axes and applying the chemicals.

Horse Was Killed.

A valuable horse belonging to Thos. Meekins, pastured in a field on the Milton road, was killed by lightning Sunday morning. The animal was valued at several hundred dollars.

Interurban Lacked Power.

Owing to the damage done to the electrical wires of the interurban system on Saturday night, the cars unable to come to this city from eight yesterday morning until three in the afternoon. The high tension wires had been put out of commission at several points along the line and the cars were compelled to run as far as possible on direct current.

In this way they were able to come as far as York's park, but could not make the grades between there and this city. Extra crews were sent at work and had the damaged wires in working order as soon as possible. The delay which resulted was a source of great annoyance to many who wished to travel by the interurban from this city to points down the line.

City Line Affected.

The failure of the city street cars to make their regular runs until early in the afternoon was due to the same cause. Cars on the two systems used the same high tension wires as far as Main street and when these wires were out of commission the cars could not be taken from the barn until Sunday afternoon.

RABIES PREVALENT THROUGHOUT STATE

State Veterinarian Gives Warning Concerning Mad Dogs, Which Are Common in This State.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 14.—Dr. A. H. Hartwig, state veterinarian, says there is a prevalence of rabies in the state and warns those concerned not to allow such cases to go far without the proper action to counteract it. Dogs with rabies, he says, will run for miles, biting animals that come in their way and endangering human beings.

Dr. Hartwig reports considerable rabid cases in Kewaunee county and in Jefferson county between Fort Atkinson and Jefferson. It is advised that such outbreaks be reported to the local health officers as soon as observed, as well as notifying the state livestock sanitary board.

Civil service examinations for assistant state veterinarians—forty-one and perhaps more—will be held at county seats in the state on Aug. 25. This office was established by recent action of the legislature and, in view of the application of the tuberculosis law in a more scientific way and in wider areas than in the past, in folk county the examination will be held at St. Croix instead of the county seat, and will be held at the following cities in addition to their county seats: Columbia, Lancaster, Spring Green and Waupun. The new position will afford valuable experience for newly graduated veterinarians and will add to the professional wisdom of the older practitioners, both of which classes Dr. Hartwig urges to take the examinations.

UNIONS DOWN PLAN FOR CONVICT LABOR

Scheme in Texas to Have Rope Factories Operated by Prison Inmates Meets Severe Opposition.

Houston, Texas, Aug. 14.—A difficult situation has arisen within the ranks of the Farmers' Union of Texas when they found organized labor of the nation was against their plan of securing convict-operated rope factories in Texas to increase the consumption of cotton.

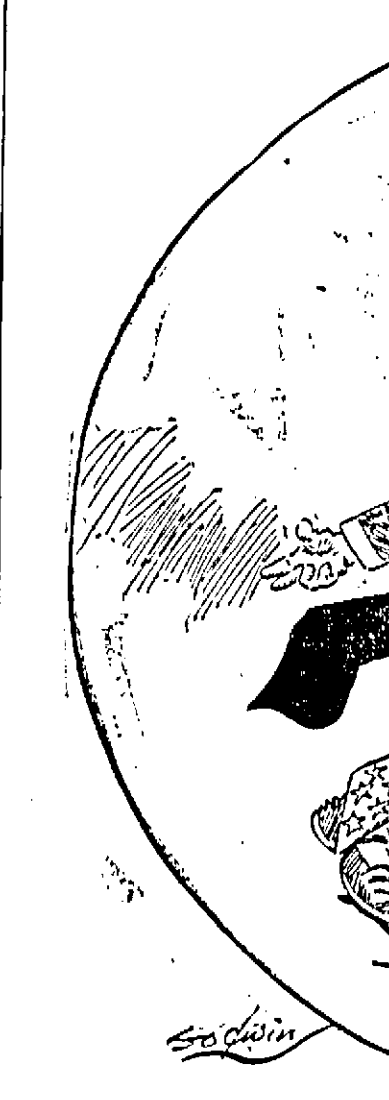

This scheme has long been cherished by the Farmers' Union to promote the use of Texas cotton, which they hoped would cause an increase in price. It was proposed to place the factory near Houston in place of the dismantled convict iron plant at Rock. The matter had gotten as far as the legislature when organized labor stepped in and placed thumbs down on the project.

At a recent meeting at Fort Worth, W. H. Wimer of New York, president of the United Garment Workers of America, voiced the protest of organized labor against the proposed venture, apprising the farmers' Union of an ethical oversight. In consequence, if a rope factory is established near Houston, it will be manned by union labor and not by convicts.

FT. BERTHOLD TRACT OPENED TO SETTLERS

Historic Reservation Near Minot, North Dakota, Will Be Opened to Settlement.

Minot, N. D., Aug. 14.—History has been made on the reservation soon to be opened to the man of the plow. Hardly the story of remarkable civilization, nor the tales of fierce battles, written in black indelible type, simply the verbal story of a people told by the old men at the tribal councils and then heard by the one who passed it to the writer. Such is the story of the Fort Berthold Reservation Indians told by Major Murphy, of Minot, who was Indian agent from 1889 to 1891. There are now about fifteen hundred Indians living on this reservation, members of three distinct tribes, the Arickarees (corn shellers), Grosventors (big belly), and Mandans (name given by French missionaries, meaning "traveling people") bound together about two hundred years ago for protection against the powerful and warlike Sioux. Of the three tribes, the Arickarees alone originated far from where they now dwell, they having come from the southern Pawnee tribes (now in Oklahoma), two hundred years ago, on account of a tribal wrangle between chiefs. The first houses at the reservation were built in 1809, when the American Fur Trading company established a post there in opposition to the Hudson Bay company. In 1801 and '05 in their operations up the Missouri river, Lewis and Clark camped several months on the site of the present agency.

The majority of this land is fertile, having a rich sub-soil. The Indians have raised corn on this land for the last hundred and seventy years, and in recent years alfalfa has been grown with remarkable results. The soil contains very few stones, while in places across the generally level expanse of prairie landscape can be noticed a few large boulders, lasting reminders of the glacial period.

SEARCH FOR PEARLS BY LOCAL FISHERMEN

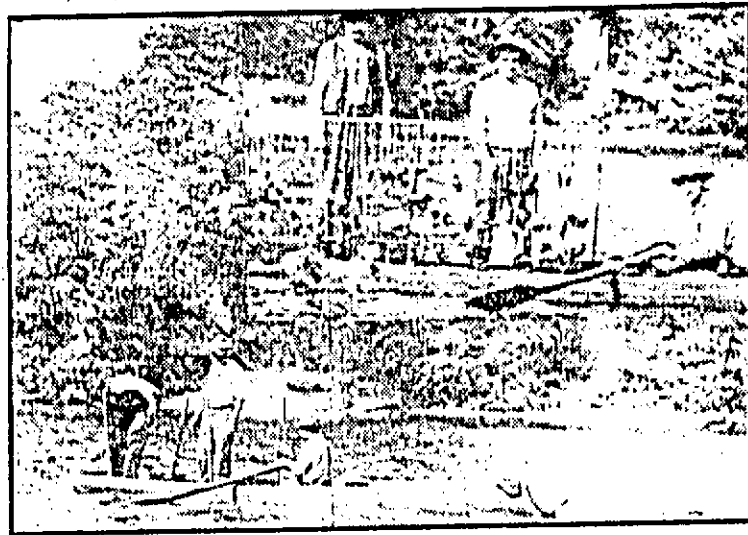

QUARTET OF MEN HAVE BEEN ENGAGING IN OCCUPATION WITH FAIR DEGREE OF SUCCESS.

WORK IN RIVER HERE

River Above Milwaukee Street Bridge is Favorite Field as Well as Farther Down Stream—Preparing Shells for Market.

Four men standing almost waist deep in the water picking clams with their hands from the bed of the river into their small flat-bottom boat have attracted the notice of many who passed to and fro across the Milwaukee street bridge during the past week. Sometimes this same quartet of silent men was seen operating in like manner on the river above the drug farther down stream.

Few persons, however, have gone to the trouble of trying to ascertain the nature of the work in which these men are engaged or they would have found that it has in it something of more than common interest. Besides affording these men a fair daily wage it holds out to them each day the prospect of making much more substantial profits from the pearls which they live in hope of finding sooner or later.

Many pearls found. Nor have their hopes been entirely groundless as is proven by the large supply of small pearls, slugs and not a few pearls of considerable value which they have accumulated already. Although the daily returns to be obtained from the sale of the clam shells is fairly large it is not this which holds the fishermen to their task which would prove rather distasteful to many. It is rather the element of chance—the prospect of making a good haul by the finding of valuable pearls. These prospects are made all the more encouraging by reports received from time to time of such findings at other points along the Rock and other rivers of this state.

Preparing for Sale. After filling their boat with the clams these fishermen, Andrew Olsen, Leo Couque, Odel De Maest and Joseph De Maest take their catch to the home of the first named on South River street where the work of preparing the shells for the market is completed. The clams are first thrown into a steel tank partially filled with water and a fire is placed under the tank. By steaming them in this way for a short time the shells fall apart and the clams are separated from the shells. The shells are then thrown out upon a table provided for that purpose, and when they are cool enough to be handled they are thrown out upon a heap at the side and the clams are left lying on the table. Then the examination for pearls begins.

Search for Pearl. Each clam is taken into the hands and carefully pressed between the fingers in the hope of finding a pearl hidden there. Any such prizes that are found are carefully hoarded until some purchaser comes and makes a reasonable offer for them. The flesh is thrown into barrels and sold to the farmers as food for their hogs.

The shells are shipped to dealers at Muscatine, Iowa, who make a business of buying them for supplying the demand and they are used in the manufacture of pearl buttons and in decorations of various kinds. Near the end of last week Mr. Olsen made a shipment of a carload lot of these shells weighing about fifteen tons and received nine and one-half dollars per ton. Within the next few days he expects to make another shipment of as much or more and is assured that the market value will be in the neighborhood of twelve dollars.

Work is Luring. To many people this class of work might not appear very strongly because of the necessity to remain in the cool water of the river for hours at a time in picking the clams and then to stand at the table afterward and handle the steaming shells until late into the night. But the spirit of the Norwestern attracts Mr. Olsen to the work of the fisherman and a like attraction draws the three companions, natives of Belgium, to join in the same business. Add to this the hope which they entertain to find a small fortune at almost any time in their catch and it is easy to understand why they ply their trade so steadily and plan to continue operations on a much larger scale in the Rock and other rivers throughout the state in the near future.

LINK AND PIN. SAFETY COMMITTEE ACTIVELY AT WORK

Carrying on a Vigorous Campaign to Decrease the Risk to Employees and the Public—Local Members Active.

That the General Safety committee and its members in the local shops and yards are sparing no pains to keep before the employees of the company the importance of care and watchfulness at all times is shown on every hand. A practical demonstration of the work conducted by the local members is shown in the guards and safety appliances placed on machinery in the shops.

The central committee keeps up its campaign to decrease the casualties by requiring the local members to keep on the lookout for means of lessening the dangers and making suggestions to that effect at the meetings which are called regularly to discuss these suggestions and to further seek to decrease the danger of the life and limb of the railway employees and of the public in general. It endeavors also to keep all the employees awake to the necessity for care on their part and to emphasize the fact that each one of them is to a certain extent responsible for the conduct of his fellow employees as is shown by the following note attached to the pay checks recently:

"The greatest risk of injury a careful man runs is through the carelessness of some thoughtless or reckless fellow-worker. When you find such a man try to teach him to be careful. If he will not be taught yet him out of the service before he kills or injures himself or someone else; perhaps it may be you."

KEEP RECORD OF EXPRESS ON PASSENGER TRAINS

Passenger train conductors on the Northwestern road have been keeping a record of the amount of express carried on their trains during the past month. It is thought that the company desires this information to enable them to determine whether it would be advisable to place express trains in the service in order to eliminate the express from the passenger trains.

The accompanying cut shows "Con" Cronin, the genial handler of switches at the Five Points. He has occupied this position during the past three years and during that time the transportation men passing the Pleasant street crossing have learned to recognize the special brand of "highball" dispensed by Con. He is certain always to send the trains on the right track, but sometimes the trainmen and others are not directed so surely when they happen to become the butt of his practical jokes.

Gravel Trains Tied Up. Tracks Being Repaired

Gravel trains are laid up today on account of a faulty truck at the pit which was recently opened. A crew is at work putting the trucks in condition to accommodate the heavy trains that will resume their regular runs from there within a day or two.

Employees at the south side shops were surprised this morning at the appearance of Boss Painter William Sullivan, it being rather unusual for him to appear on the scene two Monday mornings in succession. The only explanation that can be given is that "Bill" had such a lively time yesterday that he believed two days instead of one had passed by and he awoke this morning believing this was Tuesday. He promises that the offense will not be repeated very soon.

Engineer Gavigan went to Watertown with engine 1041 this morning to handle Collins' (Iron) circus train.

Fireman Doolley went to Chicago this morning to see the bird-men and Siebert is taking his place for the day.

A second section of 501 went through this morning. It consisted of twelve coaches and one baggage car and carried a large number of farm hands for service in Winnipeg, Canada. This extra was brought in by Engineer Shand and went out under the care of Engineer Patterson.

Fireman Ashley is off duty on account of sickness and Fireman Walters is taking his place on the 1:00 a. m. switch-engine.

Machinist Tom McLaughlin is taking a lay-off for a week.

Engineer Wilson is laying off today and Lewis is taking his place on the evening dispatching job.

CIG RUSH OF TRAFFIC IN LOCAL YARDS TODAY

An unusual stir was experienced in the local yards this morning. One regular and two extras were sent out on the Northern Wisconsin division and there seemed to be a general increase in traffic on all the other branches. That the full rush is beginning is believed alike by the shop men and the transportation crews and they base their belief on the increase

ILLINOIS WASHOUT AFFECTS TRAFFIC

Freight From Iowa and South Dakota Divisions Sent by Prairie du Chien Division.

On account of the serious washouts in the vicinity of Savanna and Rock Island all freight from Iowa and South Dakota has been coming over the Prairie du Chien division yesterday and this morning and sent through this city to Chicago. This has necessitated a much longer haul from some sections in the state of Iowa. Instead of coming directly from the central and southern parts of the state through Rock Island and Savanna the freight has been sent farther north to Prairie du Chien and thence to Chicago via Madison and Janesville.

Traffic over the Iowa division through the flooded district was resumed today and the regular schedule will be followed at once. This increased traffic during the past few days has affected the local conditions.

The aged woman is dependent upon her son for the support of herself and another son, who is confined to his bed with tuberculosis. Two other sons, it is said, contribute nothing toward her support and would send Buege to jail, it is said, would have worked a severe hardship upon her. For this reason the man was allowed to go.

John Hackett was sent to jail for five days for the same offense in default of payment of a fine of $2 and costs.

"We are in business for your health."

Here's a little story about Mesotan. It is a made-in-Germany remedy, strictly ethical, and occasionally prescribed by physicians of the highest standing. One of the best doctors in the city prescribed Mesotan for a patient, but said: "You will probably have to get your druggist to send away for it. It is imported and has but little sale here." The patient went to the Reliable and got his prescription without a minute's delay.

We only speak of this in line with our arguments as to completeness. It is a saying in Janesville that "if you don't find it at the Reliable it cannot be found in the city."

Always we fill the prescription as the physician writes it and with drugs that are honest. When you hear any one say "substitution" just ask yourself how the Reliable could have lived and grown as it has had it done business on anything but an honor basis.

May we fill your prescription?

The competitors have brought together the picked rifle and revolver shots from all arms of the United States service (the Army, the Navy and the Marine Corps) and from the national guards of the States and Territories and the District of Columbia. Golfers Gather at Omaha.

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 14.—Leading golfers of the west, representing clubs from every part of the territory lying between the Mississippi River and Los Angeles and Seattle, were assembled at the opening of the eleventh annual tournament of the Trans-Mississippi Golf Association. Entries for the tournament total nearly 300, the largest in the history of the association. Play began this morning with the first half of the qualifying round of thirty-six holes. It will be Saturday before the tournament is concluded. The amateur championship cup, now held by Harry Legg of Minneapolis, is the prize all the golfers are pursuing, and the Brock team cup is the big prize for tennis or club championship.

Grenfell Cup Polo Tournament.

Montreal, Aug. 14.—The eyes of the polo world are to be turned this week toward Montreal, where the contest for the Grenfell Challenge Cup, presented by the Montreal, Grenfell, members of the English polo team which visited America last year, and intended to represent the polo team of Canada, is to take place. Several teams from the United States in addition to the Montreal, Toronto and other Canadian teams are to take part in the competition.

McFarland-Wolgast.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 14.—Very little has been heard of Macky McFarland since he started training for his bout with Ad. Wolgast before the National Athletic club of Milwaukee, September 15. McFarland is a rather nervous person when he has a big match on, and wants to be alone. McFarland, like a book, and treats him almost the same as he would a child. He knows just how much work he can stand, and therefore keeps an eagle eye on him from morning till night. Thery realizes what a chance McFarland has in this contest, and for that reason he is straining every nerve to have his boy in the best condition possible. In fact, he has gone so far as to arrange for theatrical dates after the bout. If he did not think McFarland had a good chance to win, or at least draw, he would not be scheduling dates ahead of time. The demand for seats is so great that Frank Mulhern and Harlan Zea are kept busy during the greater part of every day, answering queries and sending out tickets. From present indications, the house will be pretty well sold out, and it will be wise for those intending to be present to write now for their seats.

MILWAUKEE DEALERS DO NOT FEAR RAISE

Are Confident That Rates Will Remain Same and Scoff at the Chicago Stories of Shortage.

Reports from Chicago that the price of beef will soar this fall and winter need cause little concern to Milwaukee wholesalers meat dealers no substantial increase in rates is anticipated. No Cause for Alarm.

"There is no cause for alarm over advance prices in the meat market," said P. C. Gross of the P. C. Gross & Sons Co., and to substantiate his statement he produced a statement from Eugene Bateman & Co., live stock agents of Kansas City, received yesterday, and which read:

"Market uneven until today when everything in the way of medium cattle lowered twenty to thirty cents. All good cattle selling steady. Quarantine cattle, forty to sixty cents lower. Good butchers to be had."

"While the Chicago market affects the local market to some extent," said Mr. Gross, "it can see no reason for fear higher prices and at the present on no one can predict what the price will be in the winter. If the months of September and October are good months in the cattle raising country there will be no cause for an advance in prices. We received four car loads of cattle yesterday, coming mostly from Iowa, Illinois, Minnesota and Missouri and the cattle are in as good condition as usual at this season of the year."

Live stock dealers declare that this is the poorest season of the year for judging cattle. During the months of July and August the country usually suffers more or less of a drought and cattle that are killed at this season are heavier in as good condition as they are later on. After the fall rains have improved the pastures and the corn has been gathered and fed to the cattle, their condition improves, and the prime round beef that appraises the appetite at the Christmas season is a product of the harvest months.

Prices Same as Last Year.

According to local dealers meat is no higher now than they were a year ago. Hogs show a tendency to rise, but lamb and mutton remain about the same that they were three months ago. Mutton is a product little sold for in the Milwaukee market. Lamb, pork and beef are the steady sellers, but mutton, a favorite dish with the English nation, finds a poor market in a German city like Milwaukee. Dealers say that there are not enough English people in the city to reach the demand for mutton prices necessary.

Another point of interest to the public brought out in the discussion over meat prices was the advantage to be gained in purchasing the cheaper cuts of meat. It seemed unusual to hear market men advocating the use of cheap cuts; yet many of them admitted that a famous cook who lectured to Milwaukee women last winter, advocating the buying of cheap cuts, had the right idea.

PEACHES CONTINUE WITH FIRM MARKET

Choice Offerings Are Being Received in Chicago Market—Michigan Crop Reported Excellent.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—The peach market is slightly firmer, owing to the lighter supplies. Stock from the Southern points is now in light supply and Illinois and Michigan are supplying the bulk of the receipts. Some of the arrivals are exceptionally fancy, large sized and beautifully colored. Illinois four-baskets, flat cases of this description sell 75¢ to $1. Some Oklahoma Elbertas, when large and fine, bring $3 bu. bkt. Most of the Oklahoma Elbertas are a little over-ripe and sell a little under these figures. From Illinois and points south considerable green fruit has been shipped and some has been poorly packed. Arrivals from Michigan are liberal, but sales are slow. There is no uniformity to the Michigan stock and prices show a wide range. So far Michigan has shipped no fancy fruit, but stock is improving and some fine stock is expected from that state early next week. The Michigan crop is excellent and quality bids fair to be a fine one when fully matured.

Too Many Cantaloupes.

The cantaloupe market continues to be overstocked. The market has been glutted and receipts are far in excess of demands. Fruit is coming from many different States and a small percentage grades fancy. They are arriving in almost every conceivable kind of a package and in all kinds of conditions, a vast majority being over ripe. From Arizona, Arkansas, Utah, Nevada and other distant points, melons shipped in large crates are over ripe and have to be sold almost as soon as they arrive, practically at buyers' offers. Scarcely any standard melons sell at $1 or less, except fancy Indian ones from the Texas State section. These range $1.75 to $2 for selected crates. With ordinary stock 50¢ to 75¢ loss.

From nearby points in Illinois, Indiana and Michigan some fancy stock in small packages is coming. These sell fairly well, but supplies are so heavy that only moderate prices can be expected. Orange melons from Indiana and Michigan, when fancy, are in active demand. The ordinary stock is dull as it comes in competition with nondescript stock. There is no chance for any considerable improvement until local stock is out of the way and Colorado melons of fancy quality begin to arrive. Rucky Forda are due early next week but in small quantities only.

DECIDED ADVANCE IN PRICES TODAY

Stock Market Opened Brisk This Morning With Startling Advances in Some of Leading Issues.

New York, N. Y., Aug. 14.—The stock market opened with brisk advance, prices rising from one-quarter to one-half between sales and immediately after the opening. There was excellent feeling in the market, 7,000 shares selling at 172 to 173 1/2. Amalgamated rose 1 1/2 and gains around 1 point were recorded in Reading, Atchafalpa, Rock Island and steel common. At the end of 15 minutes the market was nervous, Union Pacific retreating over a point and Southern Pacific losing its early gain of one-quarter.

HOG PRICES DOWN; CATTLE GO HIGHER

Heavy Receipts in Hog Market Force Prices to Lower Margin—Cattle Advance Ten Cents.

(BY UNITED PRESS.)

Chicago, August 14.—With hog receipts reaching 35,000 today the market underwent a slight downward move most of the grades suffering a five cent decline. The high mark stood at $7.80.

Cattle receipts were fair today and the price took a decided jump most of the offerings receiving ten cents higher than Saturday. The receipts were 21,000 and most of them of fair grade. Ruins of the past week have had a favorable effect on the market, it is said.

Sheep receipts were fair and the market continued steady. Quotations today are as follows:

WEATHER.

For Janesville and vicinity: Fair except probably local thunderstorms tonight or Tuesday; light, variable winds, mostly southerly.

VIEWS THE FUTURE.

What is troubling the average politician just now is how the next alignment for the presidential vote is to be arranged. An exchange, figuring out the electoral college and the situation generally, says:

"Exclusive of Arizona and New Mexico, the new electoral college, under the apportionment law just approved by the President, will have 525 members; the admission of the territories named, however, may well be assumed, in which case the number will be increased to 531, or forty-eight more than in 1908, the last presidential year. The states that went republican at that time have gained, under the new apportionment, thirty-two votes; the states that went democratic have gained only ten.

If the same states should vote in the same way next year the republican electoral majority would be increased from 175, the majority of Taft over Bryan, to 181. In order to win next year the democratic nominee will have to gain thirty-one votes in addition to those won by Mr. Bryan; and these, of course, must be obtained in the states that went for Mr. Taft in 1908.

"It looks like uphill work for the democracy. Yet the conditions have greatly changed in the last three years. It is admitted on all sides that 1908 was an extraordinary year for the democratic party. Mr. Bryan carried only three northern states, Colorado, Nevada and Nebraska. Missouri, Delaware and West Virginia left the 'solid South' and went over bodily to Mr. Taft. The vote of Maryland was split. In these four states the loss was thirty votes; their defection made a difference of sixty in the totals. Under ordinary conditions this would not be likely to happen again. Considering that the democrats have been gaining steadily since 1908, no repetition of it may be reasonably looked for next year.

"Calculations based on the assumption that the southern states that broke away three years ago are going to remain in the republican column are not to be depended on. This is true especially with reference to Maryland and Missouri. On the other hand, estimates which assume that the democrats are to hold all the states they carried a year ago will have to be accepted conditionally. The southern states that are accounted normally democratic have lost through the new apportionment the proportionate strength long held by them. Forty-eight northern votes and the 'solid South' could win in either 1884 or 1888; as matters stand now, even with Oklahoma included, the 'solid South' would have to be backed by seventy-eight votes in the northern states to give victory to its choice for the chief magistracy. But the time seems to have passed when any group of states can be classed with absolute certainty on either side in politics. The breaks in the New England states last year furnish an eloquent illustration of the political uncertainty resulting from the growth of independent individual thought. The South is feeling this influence as deeply as the North. As a consequence, the old method of calculating political possibilities nationally has broken down. The year 1912 will do its own thinking and its own voting."

NEW ADJUSTMENTS.

Diplomatic circles are just at present much exercised over the readjustments that have taken place within its charmed circle by transfer of many Ambassadors and ministers to various posts. Of eight nominations just made to highest posts in the diplomatic service, six are of men already serving the republic with distinction in this important civic function. Their selection now is due to proved merit, and is to be interpreted as promotion in a profession that the United States has at length come to recognize as worthy of a stable tenure and fair if not generous pay. This was when a similar group of nominations would have registered no such proportion of trained agents. Indeed, there would have been none such on the list. Until, under Presidents Roosevelt and Taft and Secretaries Hay, Root and Knox, the attitude of congress was altered so that the principles of competition, promotion based on merit, and security of tenure were made authoritative, there was no inducement for men of large caliber, with social aptitude, the requisite intellectual endowment and a natural ambition to figure in the history of their time, to enter the American diplomatic service as a life career. Now there is; and the benefits of the change are apparent. The next step that congress should take is to provide for purchase and maintenance, in all important European, Asiatic and South American capitals, of local headquarters worthy of the United States. For lack of them today a service, bettered in its personnel and status, is handicapped in administrative and social ways, and ambassadors and ministers are often forced to undergo mortifying humiliations that no nation should ask honorable men to endure.

DEATH CALLS AGED FOOTVILLE RESIDENT

Henry Becker Resident of Rock County Village For Over Fifty Years Died Yesterday.

(Special to the Gazette.)
FOOTVILLE, Aug. 11.—Henry Becker for over fifty years a resident of this place and who has lived in the state of Wisconsin since 1840, passed away yesterday at his home here following a long illness with paralysis.

Mr. Becker was born in the state of New York in 1831. In 1846 he came west and settled in Broadhead, where he lived for several years, moving from there to the northern part of the state. He returned in the early fifties and in 1856 he was united in marriage to Miss Jane Johnson of Evansville.

When the Civil War broke out Mr. Becker joined the army and served in the 35th Wisconsin Regiment, and saw active service during the greater part of the struggle. He was active in the Masonic order and was a member of the Footville lodge. He was a highly respected citizen of the county and had many friends, drawn close to him by his estimable qualities.

Three years ago he suffered a stroke of paralysis and was confined to his bed. He was not able to speak during this time and was greatly afflicted. Ten days ago he suffered another stroke which caused his death.

Aside from the host of friends throughout the county, he leaves a wife, the companion of his trials and happiness for fifty-five years, and one son, Myron, of this place.

The funeral will be held from the late residence at half past one Tuesday afternoon, and interment will be made in the Grove cemetery.

Herman Callentine, delegate of the local organization of the National Fraternal League, has returned from the Grand council meeting, the sessions of which closed last week. The meetings were most profitable and Elmer Olsen of Superior, well known to many people in Janesville, was elected as head of the organization. The following were elected to serve in the grand council with Mr. Olsen: William Gaudin, Sturgis, Minn.; Plymouth, secretary; C. J. Williams, Green Bay, treasurer; Mrs. Laura Weber, Milwaukee, auditor; Mrs. Minnie Pingley, Ashland, guard; J. M. Gooding of Fond du Lac and C. E. Bradford of Augusta were elected as representatives to the supreme council.

CHILDREN OF FRANK KOHLLOFF PLACED IN CUSTODY OF OTHERS

Care of Son and Daughter of Man Who Caused Wife's Suicide Given to Mr. and Mrs. John Timmons of Rock.

Frank Kohlloff, laborer, whose brutality was directly responsible for the suicide of his wife about two years ago, and for whose arrest a warrant was issued December 20, 1910, for refusal and neglect to support his two children, was brought into court today on the same charge and a disposition was made of the children whereby Kohlloff loses all control of them. Kohlloff was arrested yesterday by Officer Patrick Manning, a warrant for Kohlloff's arrest being held by Sheriff Ransom. For a year or so past, the two children, Fred, aged 15, and Mary, 12, have been cared for by Mr. and Mrs. John Timmons of the town of Rock. Mr. and Mrs. Timmons desired to keep the children and the boy and girl were given into their custody until they reach the age of eighteen. This arrangement was made by the court when Kohlloff was brought there this morning. The county has a bill of some seventy-four dollars against Kohlloff for the care of the children, paid out by Postmaster Asa Anderson, and it was at Mr. Anderson's instance that Kohlloff was brought into court. Kohlloff had agreed to pay this bill but had never done so. The charges against him were not pressed but the case was adjourned until September 1.

In the meantime, if Kohlloff pays toward the bill, he will probably not be prosecuted, but if he fails to do so the court warned him that the charges would be taken up and Kohlloff might be sent to prison. The man agreed to endeavor to pay part of the amount due and was left in the custody of the sheriff. The original warrant charged Kohlloff with unlawfully and wilfully abandoning the two children in a destitute condition without means of support on November 1, 1910, and refusal and neglect to support them. Kohlloff has been working in Cedar Rapids, Ia., but left there because of a lack of work. At the time, it is said, he had endeavored to get his wife, and should be held to live up to the requirements set for him, he will probably be dealt with severely.

Taken to Sparta.
Fred, born and Irene, his wife, aged 7 and 3 years of age, respectively, the children of Fred Baker of Edgerton, were taken to Sparta by Postmaster Asa Anderson. The mother of the children died some time ago at Mercy hospital. Since then the father has endeavored to care for them at their home in Edgerton, but, securing work in Chicago, was unable to give them proper care and turned the three over to the postmaster. Two of the children may be brought to this city for adoption by local people.

UNCLE WALT THE POET PHILOSOPHER (Copyright, 1909, by George Matthew Adams.) By WALT MASON.

And now the tender statements in forum and in hall, are telling us our safety depends on the recall. If any man in office to monkey should be, we simply tie and dump him, and put another in. And we, the avowed people, in whom all virtue lies, shall hold the seat of judgment, deciding what is wise. Should any man desire please us, or stir our bile, or gall, we'll take his trail and scalp him—our way on the recall. If one is independent and shies at our advice, we'll go upon the warpath and put him on the lee. Just as men went to Lincoln, to threaten, plead and rant, and this was their condition—to get the coat of Grant. "He drinks!" one pilgrim shouted, "and so his head should fall." "He smokes!" another thundered, intent on the recall. Said Lincoln, sad and sadder: "I've heard that bit of news; I wish the other soldiers would drink Grant's kind of booze." Heed there lies a moral of use to one and all when noisy tankard waiters insist on the recall.

The Skin and Not the Blood.

Until recently it has been a generally accepted proposition that eczema was a disease of the blood, and that in order to cure it, the blood must be purified and enriched by internal remedies. Careful experiments and scientific investigations have taught us that eczema is purely skin disease, and curable through the skin alone. A great majority of persons afflicted with eczema have no other ailment, which is accepted as positive proof that it is purely a skin disease. Having established this fact, the chemists of the American Drug and Press Association set about to compound a prescription that would successfully cope with this disease, and after much investigating brought out Marlin Eczema Remedy, the effect of which is marvelous. If you are afflicted with this loathsome disease, do not delay trying Marlin Eczema Remedy. You will be surprised at its prompt action, its soothing effect and its permanent results. Reliable Drug Co. are commissioned by the association to sell it in Janesville.

TWO YOUNG COUPLES UNITED IN MARRIAGE

Miss Genevieve Finnigan United in Marriage to Glenn Brown, Early This Morning; Nickel-Relly Nuptials.

This morning at St. Mary's church, Father Goebel united Miss Genevieve Finnigan of this city in marriage to Glenn Brown of St. Paul. The ceremony took place at 7:00 o'clock this morning. CHIEF KLEIN GIVEN PURE WHITE PUPPY

"Snowball", Thoroughbred Scotch Collie Seven Weeks Old Being Raised At Spring Brook Station.

"Snowball", a pure white Scotch Collie puppy, a curiosity in the line of dogs, has been presented to Chief of the Fire Department Henry C. Klein and is being raised at the Spring Brook station of the fire department. The dog, which is unique in that its fur bears no other color than white is seven weeks old. It has black eyes and is perfect in every respect. A canine of this sort is a very unusual thing. If the animal be pure white there is generally some imperfection in its make-up, but the puppy presented to the chief is sound in sight and hearing and without a flaw. It is a thoroughbred Scotch Collie, one of the famous Albion breed of dogs, who is owned by the chief, and "Snowball" is an imported dog, is the mother. For its pure breeding and unusual color, the animal would undoubtedly bring a high price should the chief care to dispose of it.

ROBBERY REPORTED AT ST. PAUL DEPOT

Five Valises in Baggage Room Broken Open and Contents of One, A Small Grip, Taken.

Five valises stored in the baggage room at the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul depot were broken into last night by some unknown thief, and the contents of a small grip, belonging to Dr. T. W. Nuzum removed. The grip contained swimming suits and suits for young men members of Dr. Nuzum's family. As far as could be learned when the case was investigated by Chief of Police Appleby this morning, nothing else had been taken from the traveling cases. The method of the burglars was to break off the case open, prying the end of the case open. There is no exact clue to the robbery, but it is thought that some of the employees of the road are not very scrupulous are responsible. According to employees of the road, the baggage room was locked when the day's work was completed yesterday and the keys of the doors had apparently been untouched this morning when the theft was discovered.

A few nights ago a call was sent to the police station for an officer. It being stated that someone had been seen about the depot, trying to open the door of the luggage room. None could be found on whom suspicion might rest, but the occurrence last evening strengthens the belief that employees of the railway are responsible.

BEST BARGAIN AWARD GIVEN F. D. KIMBALL

F. D. Kimball With Offer of Rocker For $3.50 Gets Decision of Committee.—W. C. T. U. Ladies Visit Stores.

After a careful inspection of the "best bargain" offered by forty-two of the merchants of Janesville on the Gazette's best bargain page last Monday evening, the inspection committee, a study of the bargains and a comparison of the stores of the W. C. T. U. decided that in their estimation the offer of F. D. Kimball of a fifteen dollar rocking chair for $3.50 was the most enticing bargain.

The task set for the ladies was no small one, the page was so full of bargains which appealed to the eye, the ear and the palate that it was only after long consideration that the decision was reached. One difficulty confronted them, which made the arriving at a conclusion all the more difficult. They were instructed to look for the item that was not necessarily the biggest cut in price, representing the biggest bargain on the part of the merchant—but to pick out the feature that would appeal to the largest number of the Gazette's readers. The merchant who was offering a twenty-five cent article for nineteen cents was, in all probability making as big a sacrifice on his line as the one who was putting up a fifteen dollar article for three and one half dollars. Again the former might have appealed to as many people as the latter. At any rate the decision was no easy matter and the result of the week's offerings was announced only after much study of the question from all sides.

The Gazette has made a long and careful study of some plan to bring the merchant or advertiser, and the purchasers of the city into a closer relationship. The idea of the bargain page to run once a week was his own, at least as the best way of a source of gratification to those who planned the feature to find that the page which appears every Monday night, is becoming more and more a thing which is followed by the purchasing mass of the city and is being watched for as a part of the paper.

After everything is said and done, the thing that interests the average man or woman the most, and particularly the latter, is the question of what to eat, what to wear and what to have in the home, and finally where to go to make the dollar do the most things. This is what is accounting for the increasing popularity of the "best bargain" page.

This week the page is even more full of tempting offers. The page has resolved itself into a page of "business news," or in other words, the weekly market on paper and this is the one thing that the Gazette has worked to bring about. The idea of one merchant offering an offer that in the estimation of impartial judges is the one best bargain in the city for that week, is a thing in itself which is making this page something that is being looked forward to.

Primaries in Nebraska.
London, Neb., Aug. 14.—According to the provisions of the State primary law all parties in Nebraska will hold their primaries tomorrow. Nominations are to be made for supreme judge, regent of the State university and railroad commissioner. The Republicans, Democrats, Populists and Socialists have tickets in the field. In most cases the Democrats and Populists have endorsed the same candidates.

WHITEWATER NORMAL SCHOOL.
To relieve the congestion in the lower grades of the University courses, the Board of Regents of Normal Schools has authorized Academic Courses in the various Normal Schools of the State. The Whitewater Normal School has organized such a course which will prepare students to enter the Junior Year in colleges and universities. This will enable prospective college students to do the Freshman and Sophomore work nearer home, at less expense, and in smaller groups than in the overcrowded classes at the university.

The new arrangement of courses of study has gone into effect, which favors greater specialization in preparation for teaching, especially for those desiring to teach in high schools. The new library and grade building, completed last year, is modern and up-to-date in all of its appointments, and will furnish ample facilities for the training school. The library contains 10,000 volumes, and for equipment and beauty has no superior in the State.

THE (45) BEST BARGAINS FROM OUR (45) BUSIEST STORES

Read Why

We are publishing this extraordinary page of specials

This paper has been studying for some time past the relative importance, interest and appeal the "advertising" of a modern paper should bear to the other "news" set forth in its columns.

(The result is staggering to the reporter and editorial pride.)

It has forcibly come to us that, what interests the world most today and has most interested them since the world began, is summed up in—

WHAT TO EAT—WHAT TO WEAR—WHAT TO HAVE IN THE HOME—HOW TO BEST SPEND MONEY TO PROMOTE THE MOST PLEASURE AND HAPPINESS AND COMFORT.

Compared with these great points which vitally concern humanity, the lesser happenings of life are but incidents.

And the person best qualified to interest the people of this city in these matters of most moment are by all means the merchants—the men who are in touch with the world's markets—who know what is being done in the new discoveries and origination of merchandise and food stuffs, to raise standards of living or change modes and styles.

Do the people of this city really appreciate this great truth? Do the merchants appreciate it themselves, is a question this paper has been asking itself and also the question—

HOW CAN THIS PAPER HELP bring a closer confidence and sense of mutual understanding and benefit between advertiser and the public?

In answer to this question THIS PAPER HAS SET ASIDE THIS SPACE for one day each week and has asked the merchants of this city to contribute

(What in their opinion will be their (one) most appealing bargain.)

Moreover, we mean to devote this space one day each week to announcing these "best" bargains. We also mean to protect our merchants and our readers in the sincerity of all offerings, and so we will appoint a competent shopping committee to each week inspect all "best" bargain offerings and decide which is the

ONE BEST BARGAIN OF ALL the decision of the committee to be published in the ad of the week following the insertion of the "best" bargains.

45 Merchants Have Responded— some with price cuts, some with "new arrivals," some with style novelties, some with unique originations, some with offerings possessing more than ordinary appeal to eye, palate, or ear.

This Ad is Bound to Contain many things to interest and appeal to every reader of this paper—many needed items at a big saving, many wanted things, many new suggestions; and so, even if you haven't a need, desire or wish unfulfilled at the present time, the reading of this ad and the succeeding ads will be well worth your while in developing your discernment, just for the interest and satisfaction of determining in advance in your own mind the "bargain" which the committee will select as "best," your faculty for picking out real bargains when you see them and also because these announcements from every point of view are bound to make

The most interesting reading of any page in today's paper

FRANK D. KIMBALL

With his offer of $15 rockers for $3.50 was awarded the honor of "Best Bargain" last week—it being an article of utmost possible utility to almost any home while the price was about one-fifth the actual cost.

Was this the Bargain you decided was best last week?

Did you read and respond to that bargain page—you certainly missed the most interesting reading in the paper if you happened to overlook it—But here is another—just as brimful of interest to you—read every special—perhaps the very item you need most is set forth here the most extraordinary offering on the page.

The Committee this week consists of three ladies from the Ladies' Aid Society of the Baptist Church.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

"WHAT would you do if you were going with a young man and were in love with him and he wasn't anxious to show his love for you? This young man is very nice, always treats me very courteously and tells the young men in town that he loves me, but I had my girl friend go with him to a show recently and she asked him if he ever intended to get married. He told her 'yes, some day when he got so old that he would have to be carried off by a girl, and I quote the above letter because it describes a certain kind of end which, I think, decidedly needs to be put into the pillory of public scorn. And that is the man who never wants to admit to one girl that he is in love with another."

This creature with a disagreeable kind of cunning, evidently realizes what is, to a certain extent, true—that the knowledge that one is in love with one woman will make him less interested in the other members of the opposite sex. And so, whenever he goes among other women, he either keeps still about his love or openly belittles it as this one does.

To one girl he cynically sings the praises of bachelorhood.

To another he insists that there is really nothing between him and the lady in the case.

Another he flatters by comparing her favorably in some particular with the girl he is supposed to regard as the pick of perfection.

Sometimes he is cool to the girl he has won, but more often he is the most ardent and admiring lover and she sometimes wonders, when she tells her girl friends how devoted he is, why they don't seem more impressed.

"What would I do if I had a man like that?"—to return to the lady's question.

I don't know.

I hope I should be strong enough to give him up and wait for a man more worth loving.

But, I know things like that are easier to say "I would" about, than to do. Maybe I'd just keep on loving him and perhaps love him and idealize him into decency.

Here's hoping that that's what you will succeed in doing, little girl. Of course, it's much harder to do that with petty little meanness than real big sins.

But "harder" doesn't mean impossible.

It couldn't be that. For love knows no such word.

A FEW NICE CAKES.

Cake is an article of food that seems to be indispensable, as no housekeeper considers her menu complete for a day without some form of cake.

Those that keep well are the kind one likes to have ready, as stale cake is never palatable.

The following cake is good as long as it lasts; but doesn't last long in most families.

Doston Favorite.—Cream two-thirds of a cup of butter, add two cups of sugar gradually, four eggs beaten until light, a cup of milk and three and a half cups of flour; three is sufficient if bread flour is used, sifted with five teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Flavor and bake in two loaves.

Whipped Cream Cake.—This is a cake to be eaten the same day it is made. It is a delicious dessert and may be served for a luncheon or supper cake. Bake any good cake mixture in two layer tins, not too thick. When cold add the filling of sweetened and flavored whipped cream and cover the top and sides with a generous layer of the cream. Garnish with a row of candied cherries or make roses of the cream by pressing it through a paper cornucopia.

Velvet Cake.—Cream half a cup of butter, add one and a half cups of sugar, the yolks of four eggs well beaten and a half a cup of cold water. Mix and sift together a cup and a half of flour, a cup of cornstarch and four teaspoonfuls of baking powder, and add to the first mixture; then add the whites of four eggs beaten stiff and turn into a large shallow pan. Sprinkle with shredded almonds and powdered sugar just before putting into the oven. Bake 40 minutes in a moderate oven.

DISTILLED WATER DISSOLVES MINERAL DEPOSITS IN BODY

Distilled water will dissolve mineral matter from the tissues, and it should be used by everyone past middle life. The objections to the use of distilled water raised by persons interested in mineral waters are, I think, not well taken. It is unreasonable to suppose that pure water, as we have it in milk and in fruits, could be injurious. One who drinks little water will always improve by drinking large quantities of any mineral water, especially when accompanied by change of surroundings, better food and, more than all, the effect of suggestion that the water will effect a cure. And by this I do not mean that mineral waters may not be in certain cases beneficial, as drugs may, at times, be means of cure.

The water in juicy fruits and milk serves the same purpose as distilled water. About two quarts of water should be taken daily, when the weather is moderately warm and proper exercise is taken.

The alphabet in script will be most useful for marking towels, table clothes and napkins. The letters are padded well, and then closely embroidered in the over and over stitch, done as evenly as possible. Mercerized cotton No. 20 or 25 should be used for the work.

Mrs. Donald R. Hooker of Baltimore, President of the Just Government League of Maryland, is one of the ablest women in the Equal Suffrage movement. She will be one of the principal speakers at the National Suffrage convention to be held in Louisville, Kentucky, October 19th to 25th inclusive.

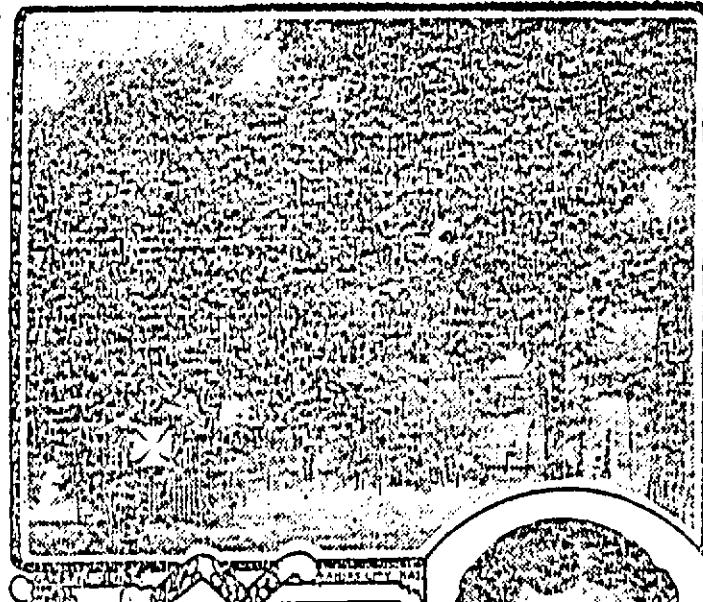

Mrs. Hooker is a native of Dryan Mawr College and for a time a student at John Hopkins Medical School. It was here that Mrs. Hooker had the opportunity to study conditions under which the sick and poor were living and the outcome of this study has been an active campaign in the votes for women movement because she believes that many of the conditions can be remedied when women vote. She contends that hygienic legislation has so great an effect on the restriction of the spread of all forms of disease that it is almost impossible for medical students not

HURON CEMETERY.

INDIAN GIRLS FIGHT FOR THEIR DEAD.

Cemetery in which repose the forefathers of the three Conley sisters. At left indicated by the cross, is the building constructed as a watch tower from which the girls, heavily armed, forbade entrance to the cemetery. Below, Miss Lydia Conley.

MISS LYDIA CONLEY.

Kansas City, Kan.—Believing that the spirits of her father and mother directed her to build a watch tower and protect the noble Indian who lies buried in a cemetery here, Miss Lydia Conley, with her two sisters, grimly face the United States marshal. Each girl swears that the ground will only be taken over her dead body.

The Conley sisters immediately took up the fight trying every resource of the law unsuccessfully. They finally built the tower and have taken the law into their own hands.

CHARMING AFTERNOON GOWN.

An exceedingly good looking and serviceable afternoon gown of black chiffon satin made in tulle fashion. Lower part of bodice and upper part of tulle are black flat lace over white chiffon cloth. Sleeves and upper part of bodice are satin with under-layers, yoke and stock of white Mechlin lace.

A gown of this type is appropriate for wear upon any and all occasions.

BATHING DRESSES FOLLOW THE LINES OF ROCKS.

The narrow skirt, gathered into a straight band at the bottom, and the crossed over sailor collar with long revers give this bathing dress much the appearance of a smart summer suit.

ternoon frock except that the skirt is short—short enough to show a kind of the full ruffles which match the dress and which are coming into vogue again now, the slim fitted bathing tights not being considered good taste by many women. This pretty suit of mauve and blue changeable silk has a cap to match and its wearer sits in down to the water under a mauve colored parasol selected to match this costume.

The Cataracts of Life.

The years between 50 and 60 are often the years of great prosperity and power. They are often also the years of calamity. It does seem as if between these years the cataracts of life are often reached and the soul awakened to the full experience and intelligence of tragedy.

WHAT I WENT THROUGH

Before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Natick, Mass.—"I cannot express what I went through during the change of life before I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was in such a nervous condition I could not keep still. My limbs were cold, I had creepy sensations, and I could not sleep nights. I was finally told by two physicians that I also had a tumor. I read one day of the wonderful cures made by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it, and it has made me a well woman. My neighbors and friends declare it had worked a miracle for me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is worth its weight in gold for women during this period of life. If it will help others you may publish my letter."—Mrs. NATHAN B. GRANTON, 51 N. Main Street, Natick, Mass.

The Change of Life is the most critical period of a woman's existence. Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you would like special advice about your case write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

FINE SERMON GIVEN AT UNION SERVICE

REV. ALLISON, OF MADISON,
SPOKE AT THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH LAST EVENING.

VITAL SUBJECT TAKEN

"Mission of the Church in the World and How to Accomplish It" Was the Subject of the Discourse.

Preaching from the Bible text, taken from the 9th chapter of Matthew, when he saw the multitudes he was moved with compassion on them, he caused them to sit down in groups of fifties and threes, and he began to teach them of the kingdom of God. Then he said unto his disciples, "The harvest truly is plenteous, but the laborers are few; pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he will send forth laborers into his harvest."

Rev. Allison of Madison, spoke last night at the Union service held in the Presbyterian church on the "Mission of the church in the world, and how that mission is accomplished."

"The way at the outset to accomplish the mission of the church is to receive the outlook upon the world that Jesus had, and that we have lost. Not that the church has made no gain in these last years of its growth, but in some respects it has lost. We are told that 'when he saw the multitudes he was moved with compassion on them.' The verse before this shows that Jesus was a hard working man, and had this compassion on people because he had the outlook that he had upon the world. Jesus was one of the hardest working men that ever lived. He had three professions, teacher, preacher and physician. The last verse in the epistle of John shows that he must have been a very hard worker, but still we are given rather to thinking of Jesus as a dreamer."

"We wonder how he stood up under the work that he did. We wonder how it was that he could do so much, could forget hunger and thirst, everything but his work. It was because of that very outlook upon the world that he had. In that word multitude is composed of individuals. And it is because Jesus saw the separate trials and troubles of each of these individuals, because he had this outlook upon life that he was the man he was. That is also the reason that the bible is so popular, because it is personal; uses 'I' and 'me' instead of 'they'."

"But why was Jesus moved to compassion? Because there is something in the sight of a multitude that moves one strangely. And, too, because they fainted, because of their physical ailments, Jesus left behind him a trail of help and strength. In this respect, the church of today has gained over the church of the past, and we care more about this physical man than did the older church. But we have also lost some of that spiritual strength. We no longer think that people are lost in the New Testament sense. We no longer think of the heathen or one who does not believe in God as lost. And they are lost in the most ordinary sense of the word."

"But what the church today needs is workers, men who will apply to it the energy they put into their business. How often Jesus called for workers, men who had enthusiasm and passion, who would do things. That is the trouble with our prayer meetings today; we expect God to do it all, and we sit around and do nothing while we are waiting for him to do it. To work is to pray and we must second our prayers by efforts ourselves. The men whom Jesus selected were common men, who had made a success in life in their very names show; men who had passion and enthusiasm and were full of their purpose. These were the men whom Jesus sent out to preach his Gospel, and we must be like them, men who are filled with a great purpose and enthusiasm for our work, if we would make the church move along in its purpose, and reach that eminence which it once held."

WHEAT SPECULATION CAUSE FOR TROUBLE

It is Alleged That Simonson Lost
Heavily on Chicago Board of Trade, Which Was Reason For Tobacco Mix-up.

(Special to the Gazette.)

Stoughton, Wis., Aug. 14.—It is understood on good authority here that Edward Simonson, tobacco buyer in connection with several Janesville tobacco men, has lost between $30,000 and $100,000 through speculation in wheat through the Chicago Board of Trade. Simonson had charge of the disposing of tobacco kept in a Stoughton warehouse, which he owns. He sold the crops, thought he would make a paying investment before turning in the money to his partners, lost it, and now is seriously embarrassed financially. It is said he mortgaged boxes of tobacco later found to have been empty at the time of mortgage. The report that he consulted a Chicago clairvoyant, whom he paid $6,000 for locating customers, are not taken seriously.

Simonson is averting criminal action against him through the financial assistance of his father, who is giving him possible aid. Several local men have been hit by Simonson's ill luck, among them being Cashier R. D. McCook of the Citizens' National Bank, Manager John Evans of the Stoughton Lumber Association, and others.

It is understood that civil actions will be instituted against Simonson by Janesville tobacco men.

LOCAL MERCHANTS GET REMINDER FROM FOOD INSPECTORS

To Provisions of Food
Law.

"That the state officials aim to enforce the provisions of the pure food law for the protection of the health of the citizens in shown by the care taken by them in calling the attention of all concerned to the requirements of the law and seeing that these requirements are fulfilled. Following are the laws which the commission aims to enforce to safeguard the health of the people against contaminated and adulterated foods:

The provisions of this section shall not apply to fruits or vegetables which are peeled or skinned before being used, or which are stored in tight barrels, boxes or crates."

"Section 4601. No dairy or other food products which has been prepared for eating shall be displayed or offered for sale, unless properly protected from flies, dirt, dirt or other filth, contamination, by being suitably covered with a glass, wood or metal case or covering."

"Section 4602. It shall be the duty of the health officer in each town, incorporated village and city, coordinate with the dairy and food commissioner, or by himself, his assistants, or inspectors to enforce the provisions of this act."

"Section 4603. The owner, manager or other person having charge of any grocery store, fruit store or other establishment where fruit, vegetables or other food products are sold, or offered for sale, who violates any of the provisions of this law shall be punished by a fine of not less than ten dollars or more than fifty dollars for each offense, or by imprisonment in the county jail not to exceed sixty days, or by both such fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the court."

COAL PRICES WILL BE BOOSTED SOON

Dealers Are Confident That Prices of Fuel Will be Much Higher, Especially Anthracite Varieties.

Indications that there will soon be a rise in the prices of almost every variety of coal on the market are strong in the fuel centers, both in the east and west. Although the quotations are now standing at the same figure that they were during the latter part of last winter, it is expected that this situation will not last.

The yield throughout the entire country has increased greatly, especially in the south where mines are being developed, but so has the demand for fuel, which leaves the market without an undue balance on either side.

Hard coal will probably be the first on the list to increase in price as the demand for it is usually large. Bituminous coal, however, has been giving anthracite a hard race for several years. The practice of mixing it with coke or a sufficient amount of pea coal to place out its lasting capacity as a heat producer, has become common in many households. Smokeless Pocahontas, while it requires more attention, is also used extensively and is considerably cheaper than any other kind of fuel. Illinois soft coal would serve the same purpose as Pocahontas, but it is not so tenacious in producing thick, black smoke, which is under the ban of the anti-smoke ordinances in many cities.

An interesting fact is that farmers are gradually becoming coal consumers. This is especially true in the rural districts of the middle west.

It is consoling to note that although the prices of coal are scheduled for still higher notches, wood will go down the scale if it is subject to any change. "The supply now in the city is a big one and it is being materially increased by shipments from the lumbering region in the northern part of the state and the peninsula of Michigan. The popularity of remnants of soft wood from the such as door facings, is being made the most of by these establishments, and many of them supply a limited number of families with kindling as a side line of their business."

ALDERMAN ABSENT; EXPLANATION ASKED

Stoughton Council Demands Written
Explanation From Members Absent
From Many Meetings.

Stoughton, Wis., Aug. 14.—Stoughton's common council has asked for a written explanation from Alderman Robt. Dow, Jr., to account for having been absent over 60 per cent of the time in a year past. A similar request recently was answered by his presence at a special meeting but since then he has not attended the two following meetings. The fact that the city decided to put an alley through a block adjoining Main street where the Dows intended to erect a building, it is said, is the reason for Dow's hostile feeling toward the city fathers.

NOTES FOR CITY FARMERS ONLY.

(By H. L. RANN.)

There is nothing that will make the drowsy god of sleep rear up and kick the footboard of a four-poster bed quicker than a baying dog. You might as well try to take a nap in a morgue. The dog is like the amateur tenor—the worse he sings the more he wants to. We had a neighbor who owned a shepherd dog which turned a yelp into a howl at the midnight ul for three weeks in succession, a rule he finally had to slip out in his robe and mutter and brain him with a shovel. Some dogs have a better technique than others. They usually start their recital at 2:00 a. m. and wind up with a sparkling cadenza just as the dawning morn comes shyly over the cow barn. We have known a mongrel pup to perch on his tail in the front yard and hold a high B flat for an hour without chopping a phrase, showing breath control which would make a grand opera singer sound like an accordion with the asthma. The rat terrier is the coloratura soprano of the dog family, and she can tear off a series of arpeggios that would cause Tetraxini to retire to the woodshed and weep on the winger. The dog which persists in serenading the entire township in the still night, after being warned with a bull whip, should be led into the cellar and have his throat cauterized with a draw shave. A homesick cur whose voice is changing can introduce more profanity into the bed chamber than a stuttering steam radiator.

Unless you want your boy brought home in a gummy sack some pleasant winter day, keep him off the horsebites. The horsebite has maimed more of the youth of our land than the drop kick. After a boy has allowed the hind runner of a horse to parade over his breastbone, he will have about as much expansion as a toy balloon with a puncture. If you want your hopeful to wheeze through life with a leaky lung, encourage him to toss himself at the throat latch of a passing bob.

The Taming of Red Butte Western

FRANCIS LYNDE

Copyright, 1911, by Charles Scribner's Sons.

At the Crow's Nest the sudden coup of the strikers had the effect which its originator had doubtless counted upon. It was some minutes after the lights were cut off and the disruption had swept past the captured and disabled trains to the shops before Lidgerwood could get his small garrison together and send it, with McCloskey for his leader, to re-enforce the shop guard, which was presumably fighting desperately for the control of the power plant and the fire pumps. Only McCloskey's protest and his own anxiety for the safety of the Nadia's company kept Lidgerwood from leading the little relief column of loyal trainmen and headquarters clerks in person. The last of battle was in his blood, and for the time the shrinking palsy of physical fear held aloof. When the ally of the trainmaster and his forlorn hope squad had left the office story of the headquarters building almost deserted it was the force of mere mechanical habit that sent Lidgerwood back to his room to close his door before going down to observe the Nadia out of the zone of immediate danger. There was a chair in his way, and in the darkness and in his haste he stumbled over it. When he recovered himself two men with handkerchief masks over their faces were entering from the corridor, and as he turned at the sound of their footsteps they sprang upon him.

For the first memorable time in his life Howard Lidgerwood met the challenge of violence joyfully, with every muscle and nerve slinging the battle song and a huge willingness to slay or be slain aiming him for the hand to hand struggle. Twice he drove the lighter of the two to the wall with well planted blows, and once he got a deadly wrestler's hold on the tall man and would have killed him if the free accomplices had not torn his locked fingers apart by main strength. But it was two against one, and when it was over the conflagration light reddening the southern windows sufficed for the knottling of the piece of hemp lashing with which the two masked garroters were blinding their victim in his chair. Meanwhile the pandemonium raging at the shops was beginning to surge backward into the railway yard. Some one had fired a box car, and the upblaze centered a fresh fury of destruction. Up at the head of the three sectioned freight train a mad mob was cutting the leading locomotive free.

Dawson, crouching in the round-house door directly opposite, knew all that Judson could tell him, and he instantly divined the purpose of the engine thieves. They were preparing to send the freight engine eastward into the desert division main line to collide with and wreck whatever coming thing it was that they feared.

The threatened deed wrought itself out before the draftsman could even attempt to prevent it. A man sprang to the footboard of the freed locomotive, jerked the throttle open, stayed at the levers long enough to hook up to the most effective cut-off for speed and jumped for his life.

Dawson was deliberate, but not slow witted. While the abandoned engine was as yet only gathering speed for the eastward dash he was dodging the struggling rioters in the yard, racing purposely for the only available locomotive, ready and headed to chase the runaway—namely, the big eight wheeler coupled to the president's car. He set the switch to the main line as he passed it, but there was no time to uncouple the engine from the private car, even if he had been willing to leave the woman he loved and those with her helpless in the midst of the rioting.

So there was no more than a gasped out word to Williams as he climbed to the cab before the eight wheeler, with the Nadia in tow, shot away from the Crow's Nest platform. And it was not until the car was growling angrily over the yard limit switches that Van Low burst into the central compartment like a man demoralized to demand excitedly of the three women who were clinging, terror stricken, to Judge Holcomb:

"Who has seen Miss Eleanor? Where is Miss Eleanor?"

CHAPTER XXVI. THE CRUCIBLE.

ONLY Miss Brewster herself could have answered the question of her whereabouts at the exact moment of Van Low's asking. She was left behind, standing agape in the midst of tumults, on the platform of the Crow's Nest. Terrified, like the others, at the sudden outburst of violence, she had ventured from the car to look for Lidgerwood's messenger, and in the moment of frightened bewilderment the Nadia had been whisked away.

Naturally her first impulse was to fly, and the only refuge that offered was the superintendent's office on the second floor. The stairway door was only a little distance down the platform, and she was presently groping her way up, the light through the upper corridor windows equalling her to go directly to the open door of the superintendent's office. But when she reached the door and looked within the trembling terror returned and held her spellbound, speechless, unable to move or even to cry out.

What she saw fitted itself to nothing real. It was more like a scene clipped from a play. Two masked men were covering with revolvers a third, who was tied helpless in a chair. The captive's face was ghastly and blood stained, and at first she thought he was dead. Then she saw his lips move in curious twitchings that showed his teeth. He seemed to be trying to speak, but the ruffian at his right would not give him leave.

"This is where you pass out, Mr. Lidgerwood," the man was saying threateningly. "You give us your word that you will resign and leave the Red Butte Western for keeps or you'll sit in that chair till somebody comes to take you out and bury you."

The twitching lips were controlled with what appeared to be an almost superhuman effort, but the words came jerkily.

"What would my word, extorted under such conditions, be worth to you?" Eleanor could hear in spite of the terror that would not let her cry out or run for help. He was yielding to them, bargaining for his life!

"You'll take it," said the spokesman coolly. "If you break faith with us there are more than two of us who will see to it that you don't live long enough to brag about it. You've had your day, and you've got to go."

"And if I refuse?" Eleanor made sure that the voice was steadier now. "It's this, here and now," cried the taller man, who had hitherto kept silence, and he cocked his revolver and jammed the muzzle of it against the bleeding temple of the man in the chair.

The captive straightened himself as well as his bonds would let him. "You—you've let the psychological moment go by, gentlemen. I—I've got my second wind. You may burn and destroy and shoot as you please, but while I'm alive I'll stay with you. Blaze away, if that's what you want to do."

was not until Lidgerwood's voice, calm and even toned and taunting, broke the silence that she ventured to look again.

"Well, gentlemen, I'm waiting. Why don't you shoot? You are greater cowards than I have ever been, with all my shiverings and teeth chattering. Isn't the stake big enough to warrant your last desperate play? I'll make it bigger. You are the two men who broke the rail joint at Silver Switch. Ah, that hits you, doesn't it?"

"Shut up!" growled the tall man, with a frightful imprecation. But the smaller of the two was silent.

Lidgerwood's grin was ghastly, but it was nevertheless a tooth baring of defiance.

"You curs!" he scoffed. "You haven't even the courage of your own necessities! Why don't you pluck up the

PARKER

"WHILE I'M ALIVE I'LL STAY WITH YOU," nerve to shoot and be done with it! I'll make it still more binding upon you. If you don't kill me now while you have the chance, as God is my witness, I'll hang you both for those murders last night at Silver Switch! I know you in spite of your silly disguise. I can call you both by name!"

Out in the yard the yellings and shoutings had taken on a new note, and the windows of the upper room were jarring with the thunder of incoming trains. Eleanor Brewster heard the new sounds vaguely—the jungle and clunk of the trains, the quick, steady tramp of disciplined men, snappet out words of command, the sudden cessation of the riot clamor and now a shuffling of feet on the stairway behind her.

Still she could not move, still she was speechless and spellbound, but no longer from terror. Her cousin—her lover—how she had misjudged him! He a coward—this man who was holding his two executioners at bay, quelling them, cowering them by the sheer force of the stronger will and of a courage that was infinitely greater than theirs!

The shuffling footsteps came nearer, and once again Lidgerwood straightened himself in his chair, this time with a mighty struggle that broke the knotted cords and freed him.

"I said I could name you, and I will!" he cried, springing to his feet. "You," pointing to the smaller man—"you are Pennington Plender, and you," wheeling upon the tall man and lowering his voice—"you are Rankin Hallock!"

The light of the fire in the shop yard had died down until its red glow no longer drove the shadows from the corners of the room. Eleanor shrank aside when a dozen men pushed their way into the private office. Then suddenly the electric lights went on, and a gruff voice said: "Drop them guns, you two! The show's over."

It was McCloskey who gave the order, and it was obeyed sullenly. With the clatter of the weapons on the floor the door of the outer office opened with a jerk, and Judson thrust a handcuffed prisoner of his own capturing into the lighted room.

"There he is, Mr. Lidgerwood," started the engineer-constable. "I nabbed him over yonder at the fire, working to put it out, just as if he hadn't told his gang to go and set it."

"Hallock!" exclaimed the superintendent, starting as if he had seen a ghost. "How is this? Are there two of you?"

Hallock looked down moodily.

"There were two of us who wanted your job, and the other one needed it badly enough to wreck trains and to kill people and to lead a lot of pig headed trainmen and mechanics into a plot to cover his tracks."

Lidgerwood turned quickly. "Unmask those men, McCloskey."

It was the signal for a tumult. The tall man fought desperately to preserve his disguise, but Plender's mask was torn off in the first rush. Then came a diversion, sudden and fiercely tragic. With a cry of rage that was like the yell of a madman Hallock flung himself upon the mine owner, beating him down with his manacled hands, choking him, grinding him into the dust of the floor, and when the avenger of wrongs was pulled off and dragged to his feet Lidgerwood, looking past the death grapple, saw the figure of a woman awaying at the corridor door—saw the awful horror in her eyes. In the turning of a lust he had fought his way to her.

"Good heavens, Eleanor!" he gasped. "What are you doing here?" And he faced her about quickly and led her into the corridor lest she should see the distorted features of the victim of Hallock's vengeance.

"I came—they took the car away, and I—I was left behind," she faltered, and then: "Oh, Howard, take me away, hide me somewhere! It's too horrible!"

CONGRESSMAN DEFENDS DOLLAR DIPLOMACY.

Washington, D. C.—Representative Kahn of California, defended the dollar diplomacy of John Hays Hammond, Senator Knox and Huntington Wilson, and predicted that David J. Hill will leave Berlin to make room for the American representative at the coronation who is the only man on record who nudged the King of England and got away with it without being censured.

Representative Henry of Texas, also declared that the reason D. J. Hill was to leave Berlin was to make room for Hammond.

It isn't Fair.

Have you ever heard a child say when it has been punished that "it isn't fair?" You may think nothing of it at the time, but the child does not forget, and sometimes, even years after, the thought of the injustice may still rankle in his mind.

Remembering Faces.

Remembering faces is a gift, and one cultivated should not be granted by nature. Many a kindly girl has been unfairly characterized as rude or haughty, just because, lacking this particular sort of memory, she has failed to recognize an acquaintance. In business life such memory is an important asset and well worth the effort needed to acquire it. It took me some time to learn this, but the lesson was worth while.—Harper's Bazar.

Try It for a Day.

Do you begin the day saying: "This day I will live as becomes a man. I will be filled with good cheer and courage. I will do what is right; I will work for the highest; I will put soul into every undertaking, every smile, every expression—into all my work. I will live to satisfy my other self." You think it is easy. Try it for a day.—Elbert Hubbard.

Rise in Russian Lakes.

During the last 20 years the lakes of Russian Central Asia have shown a steady rise of water-level. Within this period, or since 1885, the Sea of Aral has risen about six and a half feet. The phenomenon has accompanied a period of augmentation of rainfall.

Hint for the Housekeeper.

If you are fond of ice water, the quickest method of securing this is to fill your refrigerator to the top with ice and then place the same two or three inches away from the kitchen range. The supply will begin to form instantly.—Judge's Library.

New York's Wealth.

New York city's assessed real estate value is more than that of the entire states of Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

The Follies of Advertising

Mistakes That Need Not Be Repeated

There have been countless mistakes made in advertising, and someone paid the penalty for each.

Someone learned a lesson.

Countless moves have proved very successful, and someone knows the reason.

You are using ideas which others proved fallacious.

You are making mistakes for which others paid dearly.

You are doing some things which other men do better.

And there are many maneuvers, unknown to you, to which other men owe their success.

Suppose you had access to all this experience—in a thousand separate lines.

Suppose every question could be answered correctly by someone's proved solution.

Suppose every selling idea, right or wrong, could be followed by you to its outcome.

Suppose a thousand advertisers taught you all the lessons of their thousand business lifetimes.

Don't you think it would help you to mark your own course? Don't you think it would save you mistakes?

We have for decades been in intimate contact with leaders in a thousand lines.

We have been their advisers—their co-workers—in all that pertains to selling.

We have kept familiar with their every move. We know every stepping-stone, every pitfall they encountered.

Their every maneuver, whether it failed or succeeded, is recorded in our Books of Experience.

From this mass of data, in the course of years, we have evolved a new science, called Strategy in Advertising.

It comes from combining a myriad experiences into certain fixed rules of procedure.

It has revolutionized advertising in our institution. It is doing in a month what once took years. It is doing cheaply what once was expensive. It is doing safely what once was a gamble.

Since the advent of Strategy, based on endless experience, the whole science of advertising has assumed a new aspect.

The methods and results are now, for the first time, set down in a book, illustrated by many examples. It is the most interesting, most helpful book ever issued on advertising.

Whoever has a selling problem is welcome to this book. The ablest man will find instruction in it. We are glad to send it as an insight to this Agency's efficiency.

Cut out this reminder; put it in your pocket. Then, when convenient, write us for the book.
